From The Editor

Tournaments galore, that's what awaits you in this issue. Also, many fine articles submitted by the readership, including the return of "Tactics Time!". A 'bursting at the seams' magazine to be sure.

Between rounds at the Colorado Open, the annual membership meeting was held to primarily elect the new Board of Directors. A couple of new faces in that Paul Covington takes over for the man with many talents, Randy Reynolds as Secretary and Alexa Lasley becomes the new Junior Representative. In all other positions, the incumbents were re-elected to serve another term. Congratulations and good luck to all the members of the Board for the upcoming year!

President Lee Lahti has stated that this will be his final year as President, so start thinking who you would like to see lead the CSCA next term, even if it may be you!

Speaking of getting involved. On page 25, Larry Wutt has written an article on the current Colorado Tour set-up and his opinion about it. If there is something on your mind about what is going on in Colorado chess, you not only have the option to submit an article to get your voice heard, but you can contact a member(s) of the board with your views. Contact information for the various members can be found on the left of this page.

Sharing ideas can only bring about change that can benefit all Colorado chess players. So write an article, send an email, do what you can to make playing chess in Colorado a more enjoyable endeavor for all.

May Caissa be with you.

2010 USCF Delegates Meeting

by Richard Buchanan

Dean Brown and I represented Colorado in the annual USCF Delegates Meeting held in conjunction with the US Open in Irvine, California. This was an important meeting for me to attend, because I took the mike a few times as outgoing Chair of the USCF Ethics Committee, and because I was honored by receiving a Meritorious Service award at the awards banquet.

The meeting, thank goodness, lacked the tension and dissension of the last few years. The lawsuits have been resolved, the Polgar matter is over and done with, the new budget was passed without rancor, and most of the business as usual was business as usual.

Not much happened that affect the tournament player. One item was that the practice of taking five minutes off the sudden death time limit will no longer happen unless it is specifically advertised. So a G/60 tournament with 5 second time delay will no longer start out with each player having 55 minutes.

As of last year, the selection of USCF Delegates returned to the state affiliates rather than having votes sent in by mail. There were motions about carrying this over to the Executive Board elections, in effect returning the electorate to a smaller number of Voting Members selected by some process. This was watered down to a proposal in which any USCF member over age 16 can register as a Voting Member and can then vote in the Executive Board elections.

The most controversial matter concerned the upcoming FIDE Presidential elections, in which former World Champion Anatoly Karpov is running against the longtime incumbent Kirsan Ilyumzhinov. The USCF and most European federations openly support Karpov, but this will probably do little good because they are outnumbered by Third World federations on the other side. So there is some legal going-on to have Ilyumzhinov's ticket declared illegal. Concerning this, the Delegates had the dubious privilege of listening to an interminable phone message from Karpov's running mate urging support for an international legal challenge to Ilyumzhinov. The USCF Executive Board had already authorized attorneys to represent them (at no charge) on this, and one of the lawyers was there to talk with us about it.

What I found irritating was that they never named the issues involved in the challenge. The lawyer just came out with lines about "making FIDE follow its own rules," which is something we haven't seen much of for decades. The main point involves Beatriz Marinello, a former USCF President, who is Ilyumzhinov's running mate. Her presence on the ballot is being challenged because she was not nominated by the USCF, but by another country's federation. However, she has joint citizenship in the US and Chile, so things are not all that clear-cut. She was present at the meeting and spoke a few times to give her side – although she, too, didn't go much into the specifics. Anyway, the Delegates voted to support the Karpov ticket and the Board's decision to support the legal action.

It appears that Colorado will have only one Delegate for next year. Since I know Dean is planning to attend the Open in Orlando, Florida, I propose that he be our Delegate, and I will serve as Alternate Delegate if elected.

2010 Colorado Open

by Richard Buchanan, TD

The 2010 Colorado Open was a great success, with 107 players, the best turnout in any open tournament in this state in many years. Registration went very smoothly due to the great work of Jerry Maier and Lee Lahti, and we just about started on time! The Doubletree Hotel was comfortable and accommodating as usual, and our third visit there for this tournament was pleasing to one and all.

Randy Canney, defense attorney and Pikes Peak Marathon runner, scored 5-0 to win the Championship section. Randy told me he first won the tournament 32 years ago as a high school student. Behind him with 4-1 were Zach Bekkedahl and the amazing Joe Ford. Joe does not let physical disabilities interfere with accomplishing great things. The lowest rated player in the Championship section with 1561, he scored his four points against opponents with an average rating of 1918.

Jose Llacza arrived late and got a half point bye in round one, and then won the rest of his games to take first place in the U1800 section. Following with 4 points were Anthea Carson, Nabil Spann, and Lee Lahti. Ryan Snodgrass took the U1400 with a perfect 5-0, followed a point behind by Archie Shipp, Artem Bolshakov, Steve Mechels, Vishwa Srinivasan, and Gary Crites.

All the sections had scholastic players competing, and several won prizes. A group of seven came up with David Poston of New Mexico, and I was (I think) able to avoid pairing any of them with each other.

A small selection of games from the tournament follows, with more to come in January's issue of the Informant.

Also I have a chess set that someone left at the tournament site. Please contact me if it's yours at buckpeace@pcisys.net.

Monument Open II

by Fred Eric Spell

The second annual Monument Open was held at the beautiful Inn at Palmer Divide, located in the picturesque town of Palmer Lake, Colorado and presented by the Gentlemen's Chess Club.

Like last year we had another great turnout; 44 players. The Open Section was won outright by LM Brian Wall with a score of $4\frac{1}{2}$ / 5. Not only did Brian receive a cash prize, but he also took home the Monument Open stein for winning the Open Section outright. In the Under 1500 Section, Joe Davison won it with the same score of $4\frac{1}{2}$ / 5.

I want to thank the Tournament Director Jerry Maier and his most able assistant Joe Fromme for doing a wonderful job in running the tournament.

Of course I also want to thank all the players who took the time to spend a beautiful weekend playing chess. I was so glad to hear a lot of positive comments about the location and playing conditions.

I am looking forward to next years edition; Monument Open III!

Volume 37, Number 4 Colorado Chess Informant October 2010

Selected Games From The "2010 Steel City Summer Sizzler", "It's A Hot Time In Town" & "Harvest Moon" Tournaments In Pueblo

by Jerry Maier

With a forecasted high of 103° F, the "Steel City Summer Sizzler" lived up to its name. The games were heated but the players' demeanors were cool as 12 enthusiasts sat down to 4 rounds of G/45. Jeff Baffo took clear first place and the accompanying prize of $36; the 2nd place and U1500 prize were combined and shared by Lt. Jose Llacza, Ted Doykos and Jerry Maier; and the U1300/ Unrated prize of $22 went to Liz Wood.

I wonder if there was something in the air, besides the oppressive heat outside, which was affecting the players? At least four players were penalized for illegal moves; one player promoted his pawn to a queen of the opposite color whose opponent then moved twice in a row. An overzealous player captured his opponent's king after his opponent made an illegal move. He didn't know that the quick chess rules he played at his local club didn't carry over into a dual rated format. More than one player fell victim to touch move/touch take, myself included, see Black's move 22 in my game against Kathy Schneider where she got a rook for free!

One of our players was the hitherto unrated Rob Hartelt, playing in his first USCF tournament. A regular on RedHot-Pawn.com, he showed his prowess by winning his first rated game by resoundingly defeating Alexander Freeman with a crushing endgame attack. This is no small feat, especially when one considers that Alexander has steadily been increasing his rating over the past few months.

Rob commented on a major difference between playing online and over the board (OTB): a definite adrenaline rush when one is in time pressure OTB. This may be similar to the "high" runners feel and if so, it explains one reason why we keep playing chess: in pursuit of our individual chess "high(s)". Enjoy the games!

The August "It's A Hot Time in Town" was significant in that this was the first Pueblo tournament where our esteemed Organizer could not attend much of the event due to some urgent home improvements which demanded her attention. Life interrupts us all in our quest of chess. However, as we say in the theatre, the show must go on! Although, if it's the Broadway production of Les Miserables and the technicians cannot get the turntables to function properly, then the show just comes to a grinding halt. Even with this blow to our usual compliment of players, we indeed forged ahead and just as well. It provided an opportunity for Eric Montany to shine with the light of redemption as he took clear 1st with a perfect 5.0 points, thus earning the prize of $50.75. Other players who fared well were: Jeff Baffo who took 2nd overall for $40, Jose Llacza and Daniel Gonzales tied for the U1700 and U1500 prizes which were combined and split so they each received $28.50, and Elena Novik, not to be left out, garnered the U1300 prize of $20. Here are the games from this 5 round Swiss G/35 event.

The September "Harvest Moon" is a new addition to the Pueblo schedule and is the second event of the 2010-2011 Colorado Tour. A modest four rounds of G/45, this event provided plenty of thrills for those who made the trek down to Pueblo. It was good to have Shannon Fox, Tim Brennan, Tikila Nichols join in the action as they hadn't played in Pueblo recently and a special shout-out goes to Brayden Norman who played in his first Pueblo event. Many players wanted to change the title to the "Once in a Blue Moon" tournament, in reference to how often I win games against higher players. Upsets were recorded by Tim Brennan, Dean Brown, Scott Massey, and myself, with notable draws being achieved by Don Austin, Alexander Freeman, and Scott Massey. This was a good tournament for me in that I had upset wins against Shannon Fox and Robert Rountree. In order to maintain the balance of universal harmony, Tim Brennan had a fantastic smothered mate against me in a 12 move miniature; I never saw it coming. I had been too focused on capturing an arsenic flavored pawn! There was plenty of spreading the wealth around as nearly 44% of the players took home money, including all the Pueblo natives. Clear first went to Buck Buchanan, fresh from his recent direction of the Colorado Open a week ago, not to mention his climbing Pikes Peak two days earlier. He took home $40. The rest of the prize schedule is as follows: the U1800 prize of $35 was split by Scott Massey and Tim Brennan ($17.50 each); the U1700 prize of $30 went to Isaac Martinez; the U1500 prize of $25 went to Jerry Maier; and the U1200 prize of $20 was split by Liz Wood and Kathy Schneider ($10 each). Here are the highlights!

Shipp's Log

by Archie Shipp

My games this issue all come from the 61st Colorado Open. The first game against John Nastri occurred during the second round and was a great example of being on course, as I felt in control from start to finish. While I escaped with a win versus young Spencer Shook in round four, I was definitely in rough waters. The last comes from the fifth and final round. I had won on the 1st board in all four previous games but was about to blow off course.

Archie Shipp (1303) John Nastri (1128)

September 4, 2010 (Round 2)

1.c4 I beat Zach Nastri in the first round, and I was hoping his father, John, wasn't going to avenge him. 1...e6 2.Nc3 Nf6 3.g3 Be7 4.Bg2 c6 5.e4 Na6 I've got a English-Botvinnik set-up, but my intention is just to push his knight back to g8. 6.e5 Ng8 7.d4 d5 8.cxd5 cxd5 9.Nge2 Nh6 10.Bxh6 gxh6 11.0-0 Qb6 12.Qd2 Bg5 13.f4 I've got my kingside sealed off and no matter which way he castles, his king will be exposed. 13...Be7 14.a3 Nc7 15.b4 Bd7 16.Nc1 0-0-0 17.Nb3 Bc6 18.Rfb1 Rdg8 19.Nc5 Nb5 20.a4 Nxc3 This just helped me get my queen to the c file. Nd6 would have been better in the short term. 21.Qxc3 Qd8?? Crafty suggests and I expected... [21...Bxc5 22.bxc5 Qc7 23.a5 a6 24.Rb6 Kd7 25.Qf3 Rg6 26.f5 Rg5+- (score 1.48 at depth 11)] 22.b5 Be8?? Every single piece John has is on the back row and has very limited activity. 25.Bxd5? Crafty says there is a quicker win, but I like the aesthetics of this one. 25...Rg7 26.Rc1 Bd7 27.Kf2 Rf8?? Crafty suggests: [27...Rhg8 28.Qb4 Bf5 29.Qd6+ Ka8 30.e6 Bb6 31.exf7 Bxd4+ 32.Ke1+-(score 12.59 at depth 9)] 28.Qc5 Re8?? 29.Qd6+ No matter what John does at this point, it is over. 29...Bc7?? 30.Qxc7+ 1-0

Archie Shipp (1303) Spencer Shook (1272)

September 5, 2010 (Round 4)

1.c4 Spencer is one of those nightmare kids for a class player like myself. You know he is improving fast and his rating hasn't caught up to his talent. 1...e5 2.Nc3 Nf6 3.g3 c6 4.Bg2 d5 5.cxd5 cxd5 6.Qa4+ Bd7 7.Qb3 Bc6 8.Nf3 Nbd7 9.0-0 Bc5 10.e3 Bb6 11.d4 e4 12.Ne5 Qe7 So far he has a very solid position and is forcing me to make choices I'd rather not. 13.Nxd7 Qxd7 14.Bd2 0-0 15.Qd1 Rfe8 16.f3 I need to break out somehow. 16...Bc7 Unfortunately, Spencer is smart enough to know when NOT to take material. 17.fxe4 dxe4 18.Qb1 Wasted move. 18...Qg4 19.Qe1 b5 20.b4 a6 21.Ne2 Rad8 22.Rc1 Qd7 23.a3 Bd5 24.Nf4 Bxf4 25.Rxf4 Rc8 26.Rc5 Qe6 27.Qf2 Nd7 28.Rxd5? I thought longer about this sac than any other move I made in the tournament. Rxc8 leaves the position equal materially, but I wanted to unbalance the situation. You'll see it didn't work. Crafty suggests... [28.Rc3 Nb6 29.Bf1 Rxc3 30.Bxc3 Nc4 31.Bxc4 Bxc4 32.Rf5 f6 33.h3 Bd5=] 28...Qxd5 29.Bh3 I almost blundered here. I grabbed the bishop, almost took e4, and realized in time to place the bishop here. 29...Re7 30.Rf5 Qb3 31.Re5?? Crafty suggests: [31.d5 Rd8 32.d6 Re6 33.Rxf7 Rxd6 34.Re7 Qd1+35.Be1 Qf3-+ (score -2.03 at depth 9)] 31...Nxe5 32.Bxc8 Nf3+ 33.Kg2 g6 34.Bxa6 Qd1? Crafty suggests: [34...Rc7-+ (score -5.83 at depth 12)]35.Bc3 Qc1 36.Bb2 Qb1? 37.Bxb5 Rc7 38.Kh3?? Crafty suggests: [38.Ba4 Ne1+ 39.Kh3 Nd3 40.Qf6 Rc8 41.Bb3 Rf8 42.d5 Qxb2 43.Qxb2 Nxb2-+ (score -1.82 at depth 11)] 38...Rc2 39.Qf1?? Crafty (score -11.38 at depth 10) thinks this move loses more quickly, but if I hadn't done it, I'd never gotten the win! 39...Rxh2+? Spencer has several ways to proceed that would have left me down more material and hopelessly lost. 40.Kg4 f5+ 41.Kf4 g5+?? I couldn't believe it! He had me trapped. 41...Qxf1 42.Bxf1 Rxb2 would have been tough to overcome. Now I get breathing room for what follows! 42.Kxf5 Rxb2?? 42...Qxf1 43.Bxf1 Rxb2 44.Bb5 Kf8 45.Kxe4 Nd2+ 46.Kf5 Rb3 47.Kxg5 Rxe3 48.a4 Rxg3+ 49.Kf6 (score -2.40 at depth 12) 43.Qc4+ Kf8 44.Qc8+ I miss a few quicker mates, but that is fine with me, as long as I'm still going to get the win! 44...Kg7

45.Qd7+ Kf8 46.Qd6+ Kf7 47.Bc4+
Ke8 48.Ke6 Nxd4+ One last gasp by Spencer... 49.exd4 It wasn't a pretty game, but having 4 points and playing for the championship sure made up for it. 1–0

Ryan Snodgrass (1292) Archie Shipp (1303)

September 5, 2010 (Round 5)

1.d4 f5 2.Bf4 I won with a Dutch earlier in the tournament, but my opponent didn't play this move. I need to prepare better for it if I continue to use this opening. 2...e6 3.Nf3 d5 4.e3 Nd7 5.Nbd2 c6 I've got the Stonewall built. 6.c3 Ngf6 7.Bd3 h6 8.c4 Bb4 Bd6 or g5 is better. 9.Qb3 Bxd2+ 10.Nxd2 I should still play g5. 10...Ne4 11.Nf3 b6 12.cxd5 exd5 13.Rc1 Bb7 14.h4 Kf7 15.g4! Initially, I didn't see why Ryan wanted to play this, but I think it was key to his win. If left unharassed, my e4 knight is a monster. 15...fxg4 16.Bxe4 gxf3 17.Bxf3 g5 I finally play it, but the effect isn't the same, and I'm going to drop a pawn. 18.hxg5 hxg5 19.Rxh8 Qxh8 20.Bxg5 Rg8 21.Bf4 Rg1+ 22.Kd2 Rxc1 23.Kxc1 Qh3 24.Qd1 Nf6 25.Bb8 a6 26.Bc7 b5 27.Qh1 Qxh1+ 28.Bxh1 Ng4 29.Bg3 Bc8 30.Kd2 Bf5 31.Kc3 a5 32.a3 Nf6 33.f3 Nd7 34.e4 Be6 35.Bd6 a4 36.Bg2 Nb6 37.Bf1 Ke8 38.e5 Kd7 39.Bc5 Nc8 I considered playing Nc4, but thought keeping my knight was my last chance at eliminating Ryan's pawn advantage. Crafty says Bxc4 would have been fine for me and could have led to a draw. [39...Nc4 40.Bxc4 dxc4 41.Kb4 Bd5 42.f4 Ke6 43.Bf8 Kf5 44.Bh6] 40.f4 Bf5 I offered a draw around this move, and Ryan took a walk to think it over, then correctly chose to play on and win the game as my last chance to draw was Nc4. 41.Bd3 Bxd3 42.Kxd3 Ne7 43.Bxe7 Kxe7 44.Kc3 Ke6 45.Kb4 Kf5 46.Kc5 Kxf4 It's been over since he exchanged our last pieces, but I was hoping for a mistake. 47.e6 Nope! I still had decent results for the weekend. I tied for 2nd in the U1400 section, raised my rating, won some money, and achieved another class norm. 1–0

A Tip For Winning The Won Game; Don't Miss The "Contraction Point"

by Jeffrey Baffo

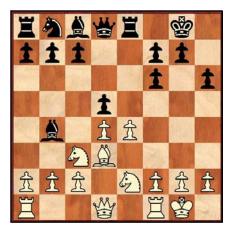

61st Colorado Open (Round 2) Jeffrey Baffo (1909) Dmitry Fisch (1876P)

1.Nc3 As is so often the case, my opening move has no unique value and a transposition to another opening quickly takes shape.

1...Nf6 2.d4 d5 3.Bg5 Wikipedia.org helpfully informs us; "The opening was named after the German International Master Kurt Richter and later the Soviet master Gavriil Veresov." Theory on it is very sparse, with only a handful of dedicated books, the best of which is GM Nigel Davies' The Veresov (2003), Everyman Chess, ISBN 9781857443356.

3...h6 4.Bxf6 exf6 5.e4?! Is there such a thing as "too aggressive"? Yes, of course there is and this is a poster child for the term as exemplified in this opening. White lacks the development to manage the central crisis provoked by this move. Black should have easy equality now and maybe even a moderate plus.

5...Bb4 6.Bd3 O-O 7.Nge2 Re8 8.O-O

8...c6 Dmitry's play around here is solid but a little slow and now White jumps at a chance to seize the initiative.

9.a3 Ba5 10.b4 Bc7 11.Qd2 Qd6 12.g3 Bh3 13.Rfe1 Bg4 14.exd5 cxd5 15.Nb5 Qd7 16.Nxc7 Qxc7 Black has landed behind in development and now he rushes to catch up.

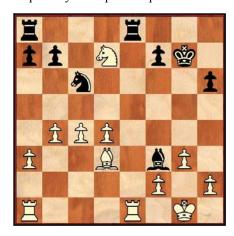

17.Nf4 Nc6 18.Nxd5 Qd7 19.c4 Bf3?

Positionally correct but lacking the tactical justification. Instead, the natural looking and quite correct 19...Nxd4 is normal and would give a position with chances for both sides. This momentary lapse allows White a very pretty shot.

20.Qxh6!! gxh6 The mate threat allows little alternative. If Black tries 20...f5 then after 21.Qf4 Bxd5 22.cxd5 Qxd5 23.Qxf5 Qxf5 24.Bxf5 Nxd4 25.Be4 he would still be a pawn down, fail to have kept the queen's on and Black's position would hardly be any better than the game continuation. Therefore, Black must fall in with White's conception.

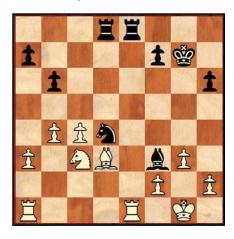

21.Nxf6+ Kg7 22.Nxd7 White is now temporarily three pawns up.

22...Nxd4 23.Nc5 b6 24.Ne4 The time and energy consumed in White's combination now recede and the contraction point now shows itself. Analogous to the laws of physics the chess battle has a natural ebb and flow to it. White's action has brought forth the reaction and now the pendulum must swing back the other way. Happily for White it will not swing back enough for his opponent to save the game. White will remain at least one pawn up with good winning chances, IF that is, he realizes that the contraction point has been reached and treats Black's initiative with the proper care.

24...Rad8 25.Nc3? Losing! So very sad to see such a fine combination wasted. Necessary here is 25.c5 so as to allow the final dampening of Black's surge by blocking the d-file, for example 25...Nf5 26.Nd6 Nxd6 27.cxd6 Rxe1+ 28.Rxe1 Rxd6 29.Re3 and both White's "button plus" and Black's compromised pawn structure give serious winning chances. What follows is a simple material winning procedure for Black and he wraps up the win nicely.

25...Nb3 26.Bc2 Nxa1 27.Rxa1 Rd2 28.Ba4 Red8 29.h3 R8d3 30.Rc1 a6 31.b5 a5 32.c5 bxc5 33.b6 Rb2 34.Bb5 Rxc3 0-1

Wild West Chess

by Randy Reynolds

It was a weekend with players stronger than anything normally faced in Colorado. Beers as tall as me (hey, I'm pretty short, so it's not much of an exaggeration). And no complaints from the family about going off chess vacationing without them, because they're right here with me.

It was the inaugural year of the Wild West Chess tournament in Saratoga, WY. Definitely neither the conventional nor convenient venue, Saratoga is about 20 miles south of Rawlins. Where's Rawlins, you ask? About 3 hours northwest of Fort Collins, in Wyoming. What's that? Where's Wyoming? Sigh... Needless to say, this remote location has a great resort called Saratoga Resort and Spa that hosted the event. It wasn't exactly accessible to everyone, but they made up for it by having a tremendous prize fund. Unfortunately, I didn't win any of that tremendous prize fund, but it was definitely worthwhile to try. There were a little more than 50 players who played in the 3 section tournament, and organizer Lee Lahti hopes to get more than 80 next year.

The first game, on Friday night, was a simul against GM Alex Yermolinsky. I decided to play, as I wasn't sure when the next chance I'd have to play a Grandmaster. I'm having trouble just beating the Class A and B players. Anyway, he beat all 22 of us quite soundly. Here's just a sample of the fun that night:

Alex Yermolinsky (2581) Randy Reynolds (1698)

1.d4 d5 2.c4 e6 3.Nc3 Nf6 4.cxd5 exd5 5.Bg5 Nbd7 6.e3 c6 7.Bd3 Qa5 8.Qc2 Bd6 9.Nge2 0-0 10.0-0-0 b5 Not awful, but Re8 is slightly better. I used my 1st pass here (he allowed 3 per person, though he rescinded that privilege later on when it began to get late).

11.Kb1 Qb6? (See diagram at top of next column) Fritz doesn't like this because of the impending e4 push. I feel like I need to get my a-pawn going, even though the queen is very inactive in her current spot.

12.Ng3 Yermolinsky avoids e4.

12...a5 13.Nf5 Good move, keeping the knight active.

13...Bc7 14.e4 dxe4 15.Nxe4 Bd8 Can't let him rip open my kingside.

16.Ned6 These knights are easily dominating my bishops.

16...Nd5 My 2nd pass was used here.

17.Nh6+ Qd2 is claimed as better, but this move definitely demands notice!

17...gxh6 [17...Kh8?? 18.Bxd8 Qb8 19.Nhxf7+ Rxf7 20.Nxf7+ Kg8 21.Ng5 is absolutely brutal for Black.]

18.Bxh6 N7f6? This just gets me into even more hot water, with my king wide open. [18...Qc7 19.Nxc8 Rxc8 20.Bxh7+ Kh8 21.Bxf8 Nxf8 is bad, but it holds things.]

19.Qd2 Ne8 20.Bxh7+!? Bxf8 was still best, but it just wouldn't be a GM game without a few amazing sacrifices thrown in!

20...Kxh7 21.Bxf8 Ng7 I'm still just dancing to the GM's demands. Gotta stop Qh6+, which is absolutely crushing here.

22.Nxf7 Kg8 This may have been my happiest moment of the simul, as Yermolinsky studied the board for a good minute and a half or so. I'm pretty sure he was just looking for knockout mates here, since my king was so open. It feels like a combo is in here somewhere. But, with no pawns, my king is somehow OK for now...

23.Bc5 Qc7 24.Nd6 Be7 25.Nxc8 Rxc8 26.Rhe1 Bxc5 27.dxc5 Here I'm only down .7 a pawn, amazing considering that brutal beating my king took earlier!

27...Qf4?! A bit sloppy. Fritz likes Qxh2, but really, those WHITE pawns are my king's only defense against a rook onslaught. I wasn't sure grabbing them was such a great idea.

28.Qxf4 Nxf4 It felt good to get the queens off the board, but with 3 protected passers, there's nothing to relax over.

29.Rd7 Nd5 [Certainly not 29...Nxg2?? 30.Rg1]

30.Re5 Kh8 Can't let him put another attacker on that g7 knight!

31.g3 Re8?? I felt my knights were a little stronger than they were. Having one back at e8 doesn't help, though...

32.Rxe8+ Nxe8 33.h4 Ndf6 34.Re7 Ng7 35.Rc7 That pawn wasn't going to be protected long-term, so I decided to go for counterattack. Otherwise my knights sit around keeping the rook out of c7/d6 and the pawns all run up the board!

35...Ne4 36.Rxc6 Nxf2?? Another big mistake (and probably my last). That c5 pawn is a lot stronger than it looks. My knight had no right to go running after pawns.

37.Rb6 [37.Rc8+ Kh7 38.c6 Ne6 39.Re8 Nc7 40.Re7+ Is definitely forcing enough, but he did not play it.]

37...b4? Eh, I guess there was one more mistake, but what was I going to do? Let him take my remaining pawns?

38.c6 Ne6 39.c7 And of course, my knight is lost to the pin after 39...Nxc7 40.Rb8+ Kg7 41.Rb7. It's 3.75 points down, but it might as well be a million. I resign. 1–0

For the first round, I played Joe Simon of Casper. He let me get a piece up out of the opening, but he fought on to almost upset me in the middle game. Here is the game, with a few comments:

Joseph Simon (1490) Randy Reynolds (1698)

1.d4 d5 2.c4 e6 3.Nc3 Nf6 4.Nf3 c6 5.Bg5 Nbd7 6.e3 Qa5 7.Bd3? There are so many moves in the Cambridge Springs that feel right but ARE so wrong...I like its trappiness.

7...dxc4 8.Bxc4 Ne4 9.Qc2??

Nxg5 10.Nxg5 Qxg5 11.0–0 Fritz likes White's castling here. I thought it was suicide and looked for a quick win.

11...Nf6 12.e4 Ng4 13.h3 Nf6 14.a3 Joe called this a "waiting move", just to see where my bishop was going to go. It's not bad.

14...Nh5 15.Ne2 e5 16.Qd3 exd4 17.f4 Qd8 My queen returns home, embarrassed the attack did not work. I still keep a close eye on f6 for my knight, wary of it getting trapped.

18.e5 g6 Luft for the knight!

19.Rad1 Qb6 20.Kh1 Joe wanted Kh2 here, but just accidentally misplaced. [20.Kh2 Watch what COULD have happened with his sacrifice if he had moved here earlier! 20...c5 21.f5 Bxf5 22.Rxf5 gxf5 23.Qxf5 Qg6?? (23...Ng7 24.Qxf7+ Kd8 Still not pretty.) 24.Bb5+!]

20...c5 21.Kh2 a6 Probably just a ghost threat, but I didn't like the idea of Bb5+.

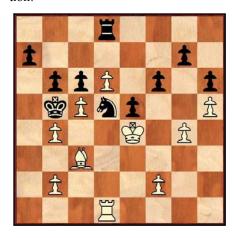

22.f5? Bxf5 23.Rxf5 gxf5 24.Qxf5

White's hope here is to get the wayward knight here with the fork. But I've got the queen ready to guard both, and that hurt his chances more. [24.Rf1 I liked this at first, but after Ng7, it just loses. 24...Ng7]

24...Qg6 25.Rf1 Qxf5 26.Rxf5 Ng7 27.Rxf7 0-0-0 28.Bd3 Rd7 29.Rf3 Re7 Bxh7 could nab a pawn, but it's nothing compared to the e5 passer I'm going to get. White resigns. 0-1

But just like the hot springs pool at the resort, I soon found myself in hot water as I found myself up against Littleton resident Brendan Barela in the 3rd round, where he played a strong exchange sacrifice toward the end. Here's the key position:

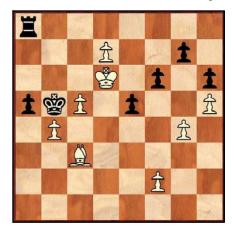

I had just moved 31. ... Kb5, hoping to centralize my king and put more pressure on the b4 pawn. I never even saw the sacrifice coming...

32.Rxd5! cxd5+? [32...a5 is better, but it's still playing a knight down.]

Notice that my rook has no reasonable defense against the two protected passed pawns. Brendan also has a bishop, but he doesn't even need it at this point.

33.Kxd5 bxc5 34.bxc5 Rc8 35.b4 a5 36.d7 Rd8 37.Kd6 Ra8 My rook clearly doesn't have a clue where it wants to go...

38.c6 Ra6 39.d8Q Rxc6+ 40.Ke7 Rxc3 41.Qxa5+ Kc4 42.Qc5+ Kd3 43.Qxc3+

I briefly check to make sure I can't form some counter play against f2 with my king and promote my e-pawn, but it's hopeless. Black resigns. A decently played match on both sides, coming down to the surprise exchange sacrifice. 1–0

It was a great event, and it promises to be even better next year, as it should be rescheduled to mid-July, so as not to conflict with the U.S. Open. Definitely consider heading to this rustic area in 2011!

Removing The Guard

By NM Todd Bardwick

(Reprinted with permission of the author, the United States Chess Federation & Chess Life magazine.)

Chess is a game of attack and counter attack. A master is constantly counting how many times a piece or square is attacked and how many times it is defended as he looks for a way to win the game.

A good player will keep his pieces carefully protected so that the opponent can't find a combination that wins them.

When you see a piece or a square that you want to go to that is protected, don't give up on your idea too quickly, look for a way to eliminate the protector.

This type of tactic is called removing the guard. It is also known as overloading or deflection. Maybe you can deflect the guard away from the square you want to attack?

Consider this position from Vienna in 1905.

Adolf Albin

Aron Nimzowitsch
Position after 36...Qe8

White notices that 37.Qb6 would be checkmate, if not for the pawn on a7. So he looks for a way to remove the a7 pawn (the guard). He plays, 37.Rxa7+! Rxa7 38.Qb6#

Here is another example from the 14th game of the World Championship match between Karpov and Korchnoi played in Baguio City, Philippines, in 1978.

Victor Korchnoi

Anatoly Karpov Position after 49...Rx(P)h4

Notice that the Black king is the only defender of the rook on c8. If White can chase him away, he wins the rook. White played 50.e6+! Resigns 50...Kxd6 51.Rxc8 Rc4 52.Rd8+ Kxc7 53.e7 is winning for White. If Black tries 50...Kxe6 51.Bg3 wins for White because both of Black's rooks are under attack.

Here is probably the most famous removing the guard position that some of you may recognize. Do you know where? It is the position from the Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone movie. Harry Potter is the bishop on a3, Hermione Granger is rook on f8, and Ron Weasley is the knight on g5. The object of the game for Black is to checkmate White, without getting Harry captured. Notice that the White king has no legal moves. In situations like this, if you can put the king in check, without opening up the mating net, it may be checkmate. This position was brilliantly designed by IM Jeremy Silman.

Position after 1...Rc3! (from c5)

2.Oxc3 attacking Harry. Notice that queen is now protecting against the mate threats of 2...Nh3 and 2...Bc5 mate. The h3 and c5 squares are not on the same line. White's queen is overworked – she can't protect them both. Black wins by playing either 2...Nh3+ 3.Qxh3 Bc5+ 4.Qe3 Bxe3 mate or 2...Bc5+ 3.Qxc5 Nh3 mate. Of course, Harry can't be captured, so in the movie, Black played the 2...Nh3+ line, sacrificing Ron. If you watch the movie again, you will notice a chess error that Silman was not consulted on. Black played 3...Bc5 mate, missing that White could interpose the queen and play on for one more move!

2010 Semi-finals Update:

Nearly all of the games of the 2010 semi-finals are complete and our seven-player roster for the final is almost set. From the 2009 champion-ship there are two qualifiers, Jeff Baffo (2009 Champion) and Klaus Johnson (2009 Runner-up). Semi-final qualifiers are Jiri Kovats (group A), Archie Shipp (group B), Tim Brennan and Ken Doykos (group C). The seventh and last spot is still being contested by Ted Doykos from group A and Jay Shaeffer from group B. As you can see by the standings, Jay Shaeffer is leading Ted in tie-break points so Ted must draw or win one of his last two games in order to become the seventh qualifier.

2011 Colorado Correspondence Announcement:

The 3rd Colorado Correspondence championship will begin on January 1, 2011. The format will be nearly identical to this year's. Games will be played on the ICCF server, and the time control is 10 moves in 30 days. Assuming a similar number of entries, there will be a semi-final round and a final round with the top 2 players from each semi-final qualifying for the final. The entry fee is $20, and you'll need to keep your CSCA and USCF membership's current. For any additional information please check out the correspondence page on the CSCA website or email me at csacemailcc@gmail.com.

Dallas Nationals

by Jackson Chen

On December 10, 2009, I went to Dallas, Texas for the National K-12 tournament. This tournament had a couple of thousand participants for all thirteen grades. I was in the sixth grade division at the time with a rating of 1787. When I arrived at the hotel on Thursday, I liked it a lot. The food was awesome, beds were comfy, and the room was good. I lived on 11th floor. I also had a creepy view of down below. A few friends also went to the tournament, so I had some fun with them.

Before I knew it, round one and round two passed with one blink of an eye. I had two relatively easy victories on boards 9 and 10 with two players rated 1200 and 1500. That was it for Friday. Rounds three through five were on Saturday. When I woke up on Saturday, I couldn't believe who I would be playing. He was the highest rated player in my division. His rating is 2156 and I was only 1787. I knew I couldn't skip the round, so I just played like myself and blundered. Before I knew it, we were trading blunders after blunders. Eventually he blundered the most and I managed to checkmate him. That was probably one of the best games in my life, beating a 2156 even after playing a few bad moves.

I couldn't celebrate for that long because round 4 was coming up. I played someone below my rating and won because he blundered a piece. But in round 5 coming up at night, I bet the computer that calculated the pairings really wanted me to lose, so it paired me up with the second highest rated person in my division. His rating wasn't so far behind the highest rated one, it was 2111. We played the Sicilian and he first lost a pawn. I knew that I couldn't blunder or else my opponent would slaughter me, so I played my best that night. I managed to win another piece before having him resign. At this point, I had a full 5/5 being #1. I defeated my opponent pretty early, so I had two more hours before bed time.

Rounds six and seven were situated on Sunday. The pairing computer won this time on round six, because I was playing the third highest rated player in my division. His rating was 2077. You could probably guess that I lost this round due to passiveness. He attacked and attacked like a maniac and won fairly when each of us only had 3 minutes left on our clocks. That concluded, the last round was against a 1945.

In the last game, we played very evenly. It would've been a draw if there wasn't time pressure, but we played until each of us had 1 minute left. At this point, my opponent blundered and blundered, so I won. I had 6/7 and the winner had 6.5/7. Therefore I was in second place due to my good tie-breaks. After the tournament, I stayed at the hotel for the awards ceremony and then left to go home. In short, the tournament was pretty scary and unpredictable.

"Make Mine A (Pseudo-) Scotch!" or "Pseudo-Scotch (Definitely NOT) On The Rocks!"

by Jeffrey Baffo

Jeffrey Baffo (1899) Robert Roundtree (1677)

> Monument Open II August 21, 2010

1.Nc3 e5 2.Nf3 Nc6 3.d4 exd4 4.Nxd4

And thus does the topography of the Pseudo-Scotch appear. Scotch opening motifs but with everything out of kilter due to being a move ahead of the normal lines minus White's missing e4 move. Only the QNA (Queen's Knight Attack) gives you these kinds of wildly diverse transpositional possibilities!

4...Nxd4 Sorry, Robert, but I hope you will forgive my bluntness...this is not even listed among the possible replies in any of my theory sources and no wonder! To bring so powerful a piece as the queen to such an ideal central post when she cannot easily be evicted is too daredevil for most players. I'm sure Robert must have been counting on the maneuver ...Be7, Bf6 to help matters. Ahhh, but as we will see that has its own difficulties.

[For those of you interested, here is my last round game vs. the obscenely talented Zach ("Zack Attack") Bekkedahl. A rich and compelling struggle despite the many errors. 4...Bc5 5.Nb3 Bb6 6.e4 d6 7.Bd3 Nf6 8.0–0 h6 9.Bf4 Be6 10.Qd2 Qd7 11.Na4 Ne5 12.Nxb6 axb6 13.Nd4

Tough game!]

5.Qxd4 Nf6 6.e4 d6 7.Bc4 Be7 8.0-0 0-0 9.b3 c6 10.Bb2 Ne8 11.Rad1 Bf6?

A blunder to be sure, but very understandable. Who do you know, seeing this position for the first time could allow that hideous Witch to sit in the middle, radiating her deadly power in all directions? Robert is a fine player with a wealth of tournament experience. He knows enough to be sure of one thing; the longer that Harpy remains where she is the more likely something nasty is going to happen. So his move has good, understandable intentions. Sadly we all know where those lead to.

12.e5! In yo' face, boss! Sorry, little street lingo there. I'll be good now.

12...Be7 13.exd6 Bf6! With this advanced scout surrounded and being targeted by no less than enemy units, you'd think it would be instant death. However, Robert hesitates. A deeper look shows that each of the possible captures here has some very annoying drawback [13...Qxd6 14.Qe3 This discovered attack on Black's queen is just the beginning, for instance: 14...Qc7 15.Rfe1 Bf6? 16.Ba3!+- (And not the too-clever 16. Qxe8?? Flashy though it looks, it is crushed by 16...Be6!-+); 13...Nxd6 is similarly schmushalated, this time due to the massive fire power being directed at the sensitive g7 spot. 14.Ne4+- and Black simply has no good moves. 14...Nf5 15.Qe5 Qe8 16.Rfe1+- and need we see more? 16...Bf6 (16...Be6); 13...Bxd6? is flattened by 14.Ne4!]

14.Qf4 Robert has at last driven the queen back a bit and is prepared to firmly blockade the intruder at d6 in preparation for its imminent capture. Then he will finish his development and begin his own active operations. Looks like he's wiggled out of trouble, doesn't it?

14...Bd7 15.Rfe1 Qa5 And here we go! Robert was looking very relieved here.

16.Re7!! Not too hard to see (given the shooting fish in a barrel motif that would appear if a pawn got to e7) but pleasing nonetheless.

16...Rd8 O.K. Surely now Black is safe and White is even on the defensive, due to his pinned and twice attack knight at c3 (Wasn't he the one who started this whole mess anyway?) correct?

17.Ne4! Wrong! The attack on f7 is of mating variety. That trumps all other considerations. And don't call me Shirley!

17...Bxb2 18.Rxf7 Bf6 19.Rxf6+ Robert has seen enough. Mate is coming soon.

The Colorado Chess Tour, Or Should It Be Called, "The Pueblo Daily Grind Chess Tour"?

by Larry Wutt

The Colorado Chess Tour used to consist of a series of tournaments held up and down the Front Range with the exception of the now defunct Northwest Colorado Open, which was held in Craig, Colorado. These tournaments were once the cream of Colorado chess tournaments. Today, the tour is dominated by a single venue, the Pueblo Daily Grind coffee shop and restaurant.

I am not upset that the Pueblo Daily Grind plays host to chess tournaments. I am upset that these tournaments are included in the Colorado Chess Tour and that you MUST play in them to be competitive in the tour. The site is noisy, poorly lighted, and suitable for only twenty or so players. The tournaments often host less than fifteen players, yet they account for a huge proportion of the games played on the tour.

Should a game in 30 minutes, played in a tournament with 12 players, located at a substandard playing site, count the same as 90 minute (or longer) game in a tournament, held at a respectable playing site, with 50 to 100 players? Should one playing site control the outcome of the Colorado Chess Tour? These are a couple of the questions that the chess players of Colorado need to answer.

I propose that we, the chess players of Colorado, re-examine the Colorado Chess Tour. I suggest that a survey be created so that we can define the criteria necessary for a tournament to be included in the Colorado Chess Tour. We may wish to include the following criteria:

- 1. Playing site conditions. (rented hall, restaurant, etc.)
- 2. Maximum number of games allowed at one site (or maybe city) per tour.
- 3. Minimum time control for all tour games played.
- 4. Minimum number of participants per event
- 5. Possibility of two tours; one for games under a certain time control and another for longer time controls.
- 6. Any other criteria submitted by a CSCA member.

I truly feel that the chess players of Colorado need to have input regarding their tour. As I understand it, any tournament director can hold a tournament anywhere in Colorado, with any number of players, at any time control, and call it a Colorado Tour Event as long as $1 from each entry fee is allocated to the tour.

What is stopping the "fill in the blank" Chess Club from holding a weekly 5 game (or more) Colorado Chess Tour event? NOTHING, unless the membership decides to define a tour event.

Colorado Chess Players, we need to define our tour.

By the way, I am willing to help create the survey with the input and oversight of the CSCA Board of Directors.

- 1. Shannon got a "Dutch Oven" in this game. 1.Rxh7 Rxh7 2.Qg6# (The complete game went 1.d4 f5 2.h3 Nf6 3.g4 fxg4 4.hxg4 Nxg4 5.Qd3 Nf6 6.Rxh7 Rxh7 7.Qg6#, Ouch!)
- 2. Fishing Pole connoisseur Francisco Baltier also loves the traps in the Budapest opening. Here Black punishes White for developing his bishops before his knights with 1.Bxf2+ (1.Ne4 also works) winning a pawn and exposing the White king for more abuse.
- 3. I needed some insect repellent as Anthea was playing one of her favorite Animal openings The Horsefly 1.f4 Nh6!? In this position 1...Bxf3 2.Qxf3 Qd4+ wins a piece.
- 4. 1.d6+ is a bone crushing discovered check.
- 5. 1...Qxc4 puts points on the scoresheet after 2.Qxc4 Nd2+ winning a piece.
- 6. 1.Rc1 punishes Black for developing the queen too early and grabbing poisoned pawns. The game ended 1...Qb6 2.Rxc8+ Qd8 3.Nc7# with a nice smothered mate.
- 7. 1.Bf4 is a nice in between move that skewers the queen and c pawn, which is already under attack from the knight.
- 8. Jackson sprung into action with 1.Rxd8+ Bxd8 2.Bxg6 winning a valuable kingside pawn.
- 9. Tom wasted no time mating his opponent in the opening with 1.Bxf7+ Kxf7 2.Ng5+ Kf6 3.Qf3#
